Hi Jesse,

Sorry for the delay. I had my DRAFT email ready but didn't send to you. I just sent it to you.

I'll go ahead and send that email out in the afternoon today to the Operating Committee team.

Hi Sal – do you have an eta on the instructions and email for OpCo?

Thanks,
Jesse

Hi Jesse,

The OpCo team members are those who have access to the calendar. We were going to roll this out to the Leadership team but want to get feedback from the OpCo first. After a period of time and feedback, we'll add the Leadership team.

Yes, the Master Calendar will synchronize and update in Outlook. This is the calendar that is setup to be maintained by Carly. For the La Cocina version, I believe you are referring to the Master Calendar on SharePoint that is maintained by Christina Johnson. That calendar has a separate purpose where Christina has a simple view of the entire year on one page. The audience is meant to be the whole company.

We'll get a 1-page document with the steps to connect to the Master Calendar and will share with you and Carly. I'll then send it out to the OpCo with an email.

Let's chat if there are any other items to review.

Thank you.

Hi Sal,

The calendar is populated in my Outlook now. Looks great.

Any future changes to dates or events on the Master Calendar will populate on the La Cocina version and in Outlook, right?

Who has access to the Outlook calendar? I can't remember where the proposal landed.

Great idea to create a tutorial for how to add the calendar in Outlook. When that's done, please send it to OpCo. If you'd prefer for me to send it on your behalf, I'm happy to do that. Your call.

Thanks,
Jesse

Hi Jesse,

The updates to the calendar have been completed. Haaron has communicated with Carly and Danielle on the steps to update the calendar.

Please review and let me know if it's best for me to send a communication to the Operating Committee team members on how to add the calendar to Outlook.

Thanks.

Hi Sal,

Clicking on the link worked perfect for opening the calendar in Outlook. Very easy.

But it's blank. Is there something else I need to do? The week displayed below should show a Leadership Team meeting. Every week I looked at was empty, including next week when the Board meeting should be displayed.

Hi Jesse,

The calendar is ready. To add this to your Outlook, you will need to click on the link below. I've copied Haaron on this email conversation. He has communicated this by email to Carly as well.

Please review. We can send out this link to all those team members you specified or wait until Carly has had the opportunity to add items to the calendar.

Hi Jesse,

Sorry, I hadn't sent an update on the progress. We have completed about 80% of the setup. We will have this ready by tomorrow. We will include a guide on how to connect the calendar to your Outlook.

Thanks.

Hi Sal,

That's what we discussed. I assume that the Sharepoint calendar could be viewed in Outlook with the same functionality as any other user's Outlook calendar, right? The desired end state is for a user to be able to pull up the Master calendar next to any other in Outlook Calendar view, and have any changes to the dates being viewed applied to both calendars simultaneously.

Thanks,
Jesse

Hi Jesse,

Based on our conversation last Friday, we will do the following for the new Master Calendar:

1. Setup the calendar in SharePoint with the function to be visible in Outlook
2. Keep Danielle as the calendar editor
3. Add Carly as a calendar editor
4. Having the calendar in SharePoint, it can be leveraged by Christina Johnson to update if needed in La Cocina

Let us know if that confirms what we discussed.

Thank you.
